

THE CHIGNON CRAWLERS. Live Items from the Heads of the People. The publication of the "Chignon Horror," revealed by a scientific writer in the London Lancet, showing that in every "waterfall" not composed of the natural hair of the wearer...

NOT PEDICULI, BUT ANIMALCULI. Sir:—You and the scientific writer in the London Lancet are both in error in speaking of the parasites in the "chignons" as pediculi, or lice, or gregrines. They are merely animalculi, thousands of which may be seen in a single drop of water...

HOW GREGARINES ARE GENERATED. Sir:—It is a great mistake to suppose that the pediculi humani capitis are generated in waterfalls or chignons because these ornaments are made from foreign hair. The generation naturally arises from the position in which the waterfalls are placed upon the head...

HOW TO SLAUGHTER THE GREGARINES. Sir:—I have every reason to believe that waterfalls and chignons are the breeding places of the parasites. Some of those which have been sent to me to be dressed or "made up" literally swarmed with gregarious pediculi and burriakes...

A CHIGNON "COMMISSION." Sir:—There is no doubt whatever that the chignon wearers are not only filling our theatres, churches, and private houses with gregarines (pediculi humani capitis), but that myriads of these parasites are conveyed to one part or the other of the city to other, and from person to person in the street cars...

THE ALTERNATIVE. Sir:—I have worn a waterfall night and day, without once removing it, till I read your article on the "chignon horror." I then took off my waterfall, gave one look at it, and—swooned. I have never felt anything more all over my head, and there has been a constant tendency on my part to—shall I say it?—scratch! I now know the cause. I have abandoned my chignon, and have forbidden the wear of it to my children...

THE MOTHER OF A LARGE FAMILY. Sir:—There were some mistakes about no "degree of heat destroying the gregarines." Do as I did. Put the waterfall in the stove, close the door about two minutes, then open it, and if you see any "gregarines" or, for that matter, any waterfall, I am mistaken in all.

A Jealous Monkey. At Lyons, France, a ferocious monkey of large size escaped from its menagerie, and reached the provincial town, where it commenced to ravage itself. Over this animal the proprietor's daughter only had control. The proprietor seized a whip and threatened the animal, who, before receiving a blow, flew at him, threw him on his back, and tearing at his flesh, was crunching at the bones of his arm...

"DUMMIES" IN ST. LOUIS.—The St. Louis County Court has withdrawn the right granted the street railroad companies to use steam in propelling their cars. The "dummy" engines worked well, but soared teams continually, causing great annoyance and some mischief.
